CAPTAIN EDWARD PEGRAM⁴

(DAR 34,444; 36,070; 73,698; 92,038; 92,390; 92,903; 105,122)

EDWARD PEGRAM⁴, (Edward³, Daniel², George¹). Of all the issue of Edward Pegram³ and Mary Scott Baker, Captain Edward Pegram⁴ and his descendants appear to have been the most noteworthy group. An abundance of information is available in the literature and in private and official documents concerning this branch of the family. It will not be possible to include but a small portion of it here, nor to follow his descendants to the extent that information and accomplishments would justify. This is partially because emphasis is being placed on the lineal ancestors of Samuel William Pegram⁷. Even so, Edward Pegram⁴ and his descendants comprise a goodly portion of this treatise.

Edward Pegram was born on 13 January 1746 (8), apparently in Prince George County, Virginia, now Dinwiddie County. He died at his home "Diamond Springs", in Dinwiddie, on 30 March 1816. He was said to have been six feet and six inches in height, and proportionally large (7). Edward grew up as the son of an affluent plantation owner, and became active in political and military affairs. The name Capt. Edward Pegram appears on a copy of a Virginia record, in a receipt as follows: 18 December 1778 — Received for the use of Captain Pegram forty eight pounds 2/8 being for reward and pay of guard escorting Thomas Woodward to Public Gaol, Gov. Warr. Also 169 pounds 14/10 for reward and expenses of self and guard escorting John Bond to Public Gaol, Gov. Warr. John Burnett (58).

Edward Pegram was a Captain in the Revolutionary War, and this title was used throughout his life (102). He was also a Captain of Dinwiddie Militia in 1779 (6).

In 1789 Gentlemen Justices of Dinwiddie County were Edward Pegram Jr., Peterson Goodwyn, William Watts, John Videer Jr. and George Pegram.

Ordered that the Court be adjourned until tomorrow morning 10 o'clock. The minutes of this days proceedings being read were signed. Edward Pegram Jr. (59)

Edward Pegram was Presiding Justice in Dinwiddie County for a number of years.

An act was adopted to establish an Academy and incorporate Trustee Thereof in the Township of Petersburg (139).

Be it therefore enacted that Joseph Jones, Thomas Peachy, Edward Pegram, Charles M. Williams, John Jefferies, Robert Turnbull, The Rev. Andrew Smye, Alexander Frayser, James Cureton, Alexander Stra_____, Alexander M. Rhe, Peterson Goodwyn and George Keith Taylor, Gentlemen, shall be and they are hereby constituted a body politic and corporate to be known by the name of Trustees of Petersburg Academy and shall have perpetual succession and a common seal.

The Edward Pegram was Edward⁴, son of Edward and Mary Scott Baker.

Edward⁴ was appointed Special Commander by the Colonial Government to defend his Parish and County from attack of the Indians (6). His services in this capacity won for him the title of "King Pegram" (7). In 1792-93 Edward⁴ was Sheriff of Dinwiddie County (50). He was Mayor of Petersburg, Virginia, and the following letter may be of interest.

Thomas Wilson (Major) to the Governor.

July 1, Richmond, Enclosing a communication from the Mayor of Petersburg relative to the defenceless situation of Fort Powhatan.

Petersburg, June 30th 1814

Dear Sir:

I beg leave to call attention and solicit your aid, in opening the eyes of the Executive to the defenceless and dangerous situation of Fort Powhatan. There is upward of seven hundred Kegs of Powder, besides all the Guns and other public property at the Fort, and only twelve men, and several of them sick, to guard it.

If our enemy knew the situation of this place, they would most certainly destroy it; and as the Citizens of Richmond must feel equal interest with ourselves in protecting this place, I trust you'll lose no time in communicating the same to the Executive, and make known the results to

Your obedient servant,

Edw'd Pegram Jr., Mayor. (60).

The records are replete with the activities of Edward Pegram⁴ on many committees and commissions, having to do with Civil Governmental and Military Affairs. On 23 January 1800 Edward was head of a Corresponding Committee from Dinwiddie County as the Republican Representative to elect the Vice-President and President of the United States (53).

Edward was a member of the Grand Jury that indicted Aaron Burr for treason (61). The following excerpts will be of interest:

The treatment of the Burr trial and John Randolph's connection with it is charming. No Judge in America ever had a more distinguished Grand Jury than Chief Justice Marshall in the District Court at Richmond at this noted trial, of which jury John Randolph was foreman. The names as given were John Randolph Jr., Joseph Eggleston, Joseph C. Cabell, Littleton Waller Tazewell, Robert Barrand Taylor, James Pleasants, John Breckenbrough, William Daniel, James Garnett, John Mercer, Edward Pegram, Mumford Beverly, John Ambler, Thomas Harrison, Alexander Shephard and James Barbour. The spectators in the court room, as well as the witnesses were almost all well known. Among these were Andrew Jackson, afterwards President, Washington Irving, and that scoundrel Wilkinson, then Commander-in-Chief of the United States Army, who besides what he received from the government, was a pensioner of the King of Spain. — The Grand Jury came very near bringing in a true Bill against Wilkinson, who was a witness for the prosecution (61).

Captain Edward Pegram⁴ was a very large land owner in Dinwiddie County, as shown by tax records (42).

Edward married Mary Lyle about 1765, and reared a large family of very successful people. So far as is known, all of them were born in Dinwiddie County, Virginia, probably some of them at "Diamond Springs", where Edward lived and died. Edward and Mary had seven children: ELIZABETH⁵, MARY BAKER, REBECCA, ANN LYLE, JOHN, BAKER and EDWARD (6, 7, 62).

Mary, Edward's wife died on 30 January 1778, after which he married Ann Harper Parham, a widow. She died 11 September 1814. There were seven children of this union: MARTHA⁵, ROBERT, WILLIAM, ELIZABETH "BETSY", WILLIAM II (the first William probably died in infancy), HARRIET and GEORGE (6, 62).

Each individual, followed by his descendants, will be discussed in the order just given, which is according to age seniority.

He was killed at the battle of Antietam, Maryland on 17 September 1862, at the age of 48 years. He was buried at Hollywood Cemetery in Richmond, Virginia. There were five children:
