The material was from many sources, and often times reference will be made only to the Pegram Papers, since they contained authentic information, sometimes from unidentified sources. The primary source is also referred to, where available and indicated. The Pegram files contained a document similar in style and content to the Lumpkin manuscript (reference 41). There was probably some cooperation, and exchange of information, between the two families.

62. Pegram, Gen. John — Family Bible, photostat of original bible records, and additional attached family records. Copies of these bible records were obtained from the genealogical files of the late Robert Baker Pegram III⁸, and his wife Susan Wright Pegram, an accomplished genealogist. Henry Pegram, author of the booklet on the Origin of the Pegram Family (Reference 6), stated in a letter of 12 July 1921 that he had inspected the bible at the home of Colonel Holt, a descendant of Gen. John Pegram. Capt. Robert Baker Pegram, son of Gen. John, must have had the bible at some time, since he sent notarized information, the same as contained in the bible, to Mrs. Virginia Pegram McIntosh of Baltimore, a granddaughter of Gen. John’s. The records in the original bible were obviously augmented in the years following General Pegram’s death. The present location of the bible is not known to the compiler. It was printed in 1812 by Mathew Carney, 122 Market Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.
